

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF IRRIGATION CONSULTANTS

WEBSITE FORUM

The ASIC website forum is activated for all members

As a member benefit, the ASIC forum has been created to provide a method to discuss particular topics, ask questions, provide opinions, or give suggestions to the entire professional membership.

General forum topics have been created within the forum to organize discussions.

Sub-topics can be created within each topic by any user.

New general topics can be added at any time upon request by a member. All topic requests are to be made to ASIC headquarters.

A feature called “post back” is included which can email you when updated correspondence is posted on the forum

The ASIC member forum is a professional venue and a member benefit to share questions, responses, and ideas regarding the irrigation industry. Content is monitored and explicit language or defamatory remarks are not permitted in the forum and entries are subject to removal. Violation of the professional nature of the forum may be subject to a member’s removal of forum privileges. Please report questionable content to ASIC headquarters.

Login procedure

Visit the ASIC website at www.asic.org

Select the Forum page from the ‘Members’ tab on the right side of the page.

Login to the forum:

Your login is your first initial, last name.

Your initial password is first name, last initial.

Example: Jim Smith: login: jsmith, password: jims

Once logged in, change your password and verify current email by clicking on the “my profile” in the upper right side.

The general pre-set topics are listed on the page.

Issues with login or procedures can be directed to ASIC headquarters (508) 763-8140 or via email to shohl@waterconcern.com

We look forward to an exciting new method to integrate the membership and ideals within our Society!